

SPENCER RALSTON

Spencer Ralston is originally from Music City USA, Nashville, Tennessee, but currently lives in Los Angeles as a professional actor and choreographer who is known for his fun and energetic style of hip hop. He loves working with dancers of all ages from beginners to competitive dance teams, to celebrity clients, and seasoned professionals. He also teaches conventions and master classes nationally and internationally. His credits include: Guest Starring on How I Met Your Mother, Adam Sandler's Phone, Wallet, Keys (Facebook Video), LA Clippers Halftime show and dancing in a national commercial for Famous Footwear. During his time in Nashville, he choreographed for The Nashville Predators (NHL), The Tennessee Titans (NFL), while touring with local artists and appearing in country music videos on CMT. Spencer received his training at Edge Performing Arts Center, Debbie Reynolds Studios, Millennium Dance Complex in Los Angeles, California and D.C. Dance Factory in Nashville, Tennessee.