

JENNIFER CHANNON

Dance Director Miss Jenn has studied and trained in the art of dance since the age of 3. Her passion for the arts continued as she pursued a profession at Simpson College in Theatre. After college she became certified through Dance Masters of Mid America where she achieved a master's certificate in teaching the art of dance. She is currently the President of Dance Masters Chapter #34. She recently celebrated her 30th year of teaching. Outside of teaching dance, she enjoys teaching as a para educator, and is currently a judge and tabulator for Regional and National Dance Competitions for Talent On Parade. She is one of the original Dance Directive teachers, and loves sharing her passion with growing dancers! Many of her students have gone on to become professionals in performance as dancers and singers and across the nation. She has won many choreography awards as well as her former students holding regional and national titles. She is a well-known choreographer for studio's locally and surrounding states. Her well-rounded dance educational background allows students to learn at an advanced level in all styles of dance. Teaching the art of dance is her passion and one of her greatest rewards.
