

Michael Kelly

Michael is a dancer, teacher, and choreographer based out of Las Vegas, Nevada. He received his BFA in dance from NYU Tisch School of the Arts in New York City. He also received his training from Hubbard Street Dance Chicago and Grand Rapids Ballet School. Michael has worked both nationally and internationally, including dancing for the Moulin Rouge in Paris, France. Other professional credits include, Rambert Dance Company in London, England, as well as "Extravaganza" at the Jubilee Theater in Las Vegas. Michael had the opportunity of performing alongside Kidd Pivot and 60 other dancers for the "White Light Festival" choreographed by Crystal Pite at Lincoln Center. Most recently he was featured in "La Grand Soirée à Fontainebleau," a special TV performance celebrating NYE in France. Additionally, Michael has performed repertoire by choreographers such as Bobbi Jean Smith, Andrea Miller, Jermaine Spivey, Ohad Naharin, Loni Landon and Sidi Larbi Cherkaoui. Beyond dancing, Michael teaches and choreographs for dancers of all ages. He regularly teaches pre-professional students, helping bridge the gap between their training and the professional world.
